Symposium Objectives

As part of our educational mission, this meeting is designed to provide rehab professionals with an update on the latest program guidelines, regulatory issues and patient care strategies. It is intended for healthcare professionals specializing in the delivery of cardiac and/or pulmonary rehabilitation services, including nurses, exercise specialists or physiologists, respiratory therapists, registered dietitians, physicians, nurse practitioners, physical therapists and others

Attendees at this symposium will have the opportunity to accomplish the following learner outcomes:

- Summarize best practices for managing current and emerging cardiac and pulmonary therapeutic devices
- Synthesize the impact of current and emerging medical management strategies. Applying new knowledge to create interventions for cardiac and pulmonary patients
- Understand and implement novel strategies to facilitate weight loss in cardiac and pulmonary rehab patients
- Understand and implement strategies to facilitate change in cardiac and pulmonary rehab patients
